

Visual Corporate Identity Manual

Brand Application Guide

Communication, Branding and Public Affairs Department

Version 3. 2025

Objectives of this manual

The Visual Corporate Identity Manual establishes the basic criteria and rules to be followed for correct application of the Aqualia brand.

It is aimed at all members of the company, but mainly at those involved in the design and implementation of any image or communication element.

We must make every effort to keep Aqualia's visual identity consistent.

We are a very large group of people working in the same organisation but very geographically diverse.

Together we need to ensure that each day we are building and nurturing a unique image of our Aqualia brand among our different target audiences.

A clear message and the same visual language that we all share to make a strong and competitive brand: Aqualia.

Proper compliance with the rules included in this manual by all of us helps create a uniform image of Aqualia, making it easier to distinguish the company and consolidate its market position.

Bearing in mind the general approach set out above, this manual essentially aims to meet two objectives:

- Establish and illustrate the rules for the proper use of the Aqualia brand, as well as the use of all aspects related to it (correct use of visual identity, colour, emplacements and typeface).
- Leverage examples to explain the correct application of the Aqualia brand, indicating correct and incorrect uses in each case.

intro

Aqualia Goal

Aqualia is one of the leading national and international operators specialising in the search for efficient responses and solutions to water supply, sanitation, treatment and re-use needs in the areas where it is present.

Aqualia professionals contribute with their daily work to ensuring the well-being of people and the progress of the communities where they work, providing a quality public service and ensuring the human right to water.

Aqualia Positioning

Aqualia has a clear business, ethical, social and environmental goal that positions it as a world leader in end-to-end water-cycle management and makes it a key player in delivering on the UN's Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs).

In its commitment to society, Aqualia carries out actions linked to the development of the 2030 Agenda based on the financial, social and environmental sustainability of its activity. It also encourages dialogue and touchpoints with stakeholders and trains and reports to ensure that citizens are complicit in rational and efficient water use.

Aqualia's work is people-centric, viewing water as a public good and human right and striving every day to guarantee it.

Aqualia Values

Aqualia faces the challenge of efficient and innovative management across the end-to-end water cycle, focusing on its values as a company and building a business culture around its distinguishing features:

- Expertise in the end-to-end water cycle management. Aqualia's fundamental purpose is to deliver viable environmental, social and financial solutions and provide a quality service at all stages of the end-to-end water cycle.
- Committed people focused on customer and goal. The Aqualia staff comprises people who care for people and who demonstrate their strong vocation for public service every day, pushing past current and future challenges to enhance the lives of each community where the company is present.
- Business ethics, transparency and integrity. Aqualia operates under standards of business ethics and integrity. It is a benchmark in ethical management, maintaining relationships of respect, trust and equal opportunities with its professionals and different target audiences.
- Service quality and efficiency. Aqualia's commitment to society means constantly developing pioneering solutions that make life easier for people. A spirit of innovation and achievement is one of the pillars the company is built on.
- Environmental engagement, awareness-raising and outreach. Aqualia promotes people being informed and aware of environmental and social problems related to water management, either through educational tools, the promotion of sport or by supporting organisations aligned with its values.
- Solvency and financial consistency. Aqualia's national and international leadership position is shored up by its global risk management model that leads it to operate by leveraging the opportunities afforded by the water industry and established policies.
- Social engagement. Aqualia strives to build a fairer and more inclusive society through responsible water and sanitation use. Through its work it appeals to the population and invites people to reflect on how every small gesture can help improve the health of the planet.
- Innovation. The challenge of the technological age has seen Aqualia innovating from the outset, in systems, equipment and processes, powering innovation in sustainability and the company's role in the new circular economy model.

The brand

A brand is a fundamental and necessary commercial identification (or set of multiple identifiers) offering a product or service on the market in response to a sales strategy.

A brand is also the spirit of a company and its benchmark. All company decisions, actions and attitudes must convey the values that make up the brand, and these values must in turn be its support and reinforcement.

The influence of the brand reaches past its role in the service marketing process to ensure the consistency, motivation and evolution of the company.

Ergo, the Aqualia brand as such integrates the company's project and corporate culture. Its function extends beyond a communication mechanism, business asset, logo or service catalogue.

Aqualia is a global brand. It represents the company's visual identity across all its internal and external expressions, as a benchmark on the market and in its environment.

The company's aim is to establish a constant and strong presence of its Aqualia brand in each and every one of its business relationships and opportunities, designing negotiation strategies that include implementing the Aqualia brand across 100% of its corporate regulations. From there, any concession must be considered exceptional.

Brand perception

From a strong and clear local positioning and engagement, Aqualia is positioned as a global brand, both nationally and internationally.

The difference establishing a better or worse perception of a brand's image in relation to a service or product is an area where multiple variables come into play.

It all adds up: the citizen's mind gathers information on everything that stems from the same source and uses it to conceive a concept with which to act with regards the brand.

Customers, the media, government, bodies, entities and the company's workforce react differently depending on the image they associate with the brand.

By building a brand image a company constructs the present and consolidates the foundations of what the future will hold.

The brand and its relational framework

Managing the Aqualia brand is one of the company's most important objectives. Its function is to secure the company's identity on the market and with its different stakeholders by performing intensive analysis work and evaluating and crafting implementation techniques and tools that continually nurture the life cycle of the corporate brand.

Brand architecture is one of these techniques. As an integral part of a company's strategy, it is embodied in the forms of the business model itself. It normalises and defines the organisational structure that specifies the type, number, relationship and purpose of the brands within the business structure. It must therefore be consistent to strengthen the strategic impact, clarify and create value and synergies.

For Aqualia, the brand is a tier-one asset for the company's internal and external evolution. It generates value for stakeholders and the market and positions it with regards competitors. It also contributes to internal cohesion and increases pride in belonging.

Company name, trademark and brand

Company name

FCC Aqualia S.A.

Trademark

The company name identifies and individualises a corporate legal entity that has responsibilities, rights and obligations. This is the name under which business is done, contracts are signed and legal commitments are guaranteed. This is a mandatory legal concept applied for at the Companies Register and governed by the regulations of the Companies Register Regulation, Articles 395 to 419.

The trademark consists of a sign able to be visually represented in a way that identifies the company in commercial dealings and serves to distinguish it from other companies that carry out identical or similar activities. It is applied for at the Spanish Patent and Trademark Office and may or may not coincide with the company name. It is regulated by Law 17/2001 on Trademarks.

The trademark, converted into a brand, aims to highlight the market presence of a particular business activity. To give an example, we may refer on the one hand to the trademark or brand ZARA, the distinctive sign that clearly distinguishes the activity carried out by its holder on the market, and on the other hand the company name Inditex, S.A., the name of the firm that initially registered the trademark.

The role of the company name is usually limited exclusively within the framework of legal relations and not in market competition.

The brand and its application

Logo

The brand comprises the logo, i.e., the word Aqualia, built from a simple yet characterful typeface in lowercase letters to make it more relatable, and the symbol formed by the two arrows or wings.

It presents a close, modern, young and dynamic image, essentially aimed at people; an image with its own character.

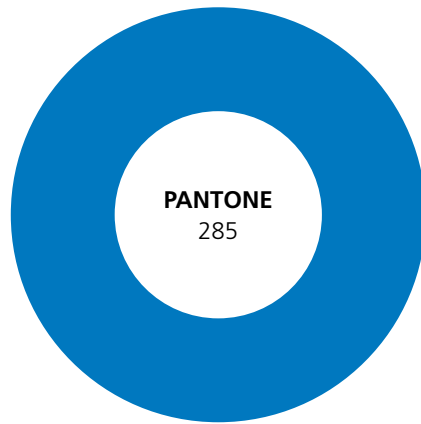

In the case of external communications by the company, the brand may be accompanied by the slogan or claim in the authorised languages, as we explain further on.

The claim “Your water company” applies to communications intended for the end customer (the person who is the recipient of the service provided by Aqualia).

Clear space

As a general rule, the logo's clear space is defined by its height.

The claim is an exception, placed at the specified and justified distance to the right of the logo.

Minimum size

Your water company

Your water company

Your water company

Your water company

Your water company

The logo must be displayed correctly. This is done by setting the minimum allowed sizes.

If only the logo is represented, without the claim, it is a minimum of 15 mm. If the two go together, the minimum size will be 22 mm.

If there is a need to apply it to a smaller size, the Communication, Branding and Public Affairs Department must be consulted.

Claim

FOUR-COLOUR

c0 m0 y0 k60

RGB

Tu compañía del agua

La teva companyia de l'aigua

A túa compañía da auga

A sua companhia de água

Your water company

Votre compagnie des eaux

For communications outside the company, the brand may be accompanied by the slogan or claim in the authorised languages.

The claim must always keep the same proportion with regards the logo. For this purpose, when it is used, it must be requested from the Communication, Branding and Public Affairs Department.

As can be seen on the next page, the logo with the claim can also be represented in black, white or monochrome.

Colour versions

ON LIGHT COLOURS

These are the only colours in which the logo can be represented.

Corporate colours

On a white background or light colours or images.

White

On dark colours or images.

Grey, Corporate Blue or Black

When it must be represented in a single colour (monochrome version).

ON DARK COLOURS

MONOCHROME

Inappropriate use

THE LOGO MUST NOT BE DISTORTED

Any item the logo is used on, whether a pen, vehicle or internal note, should be considered a communication element. Care should therefore be taken to ensure the presentation is appropriate. Check that the image conveyed is what the company and its professionals deserve.

The logo occasionally appears distorted, giving an impression of carelessness that does not correspond to Aqualia and which must not be allowed.

The logo size often has to be modified for Word or PowerPoint documents. When this occurs, make sure the percentage of reduction or expansion is the same vertically as it is horizontally.

Inappropriate use

NO OTHER COLOURS OR PROPORTION CHANGES SHOULD BE USED

The Aqualia logo is the upshot of intense research in which each letter, space and colour has been carefully calculated.

It must therefore not be modified. This means it must be used on the different communication media according to the rules and with the visual elements proposed in this manual, with no retouching. The brand image may never be distorted and the logo will always be applied in the same way, colours and proportions, transmitting a solid and unmistakeable vision.

Corporate typeface

There are also other models of equipment for football, paddle tennis and cycling, among other sports. See the available designs at the link provided on this page.

Please see the Communication, Branding and Public Affairs Department for any other type of sports equipment.

Trade fairs and events - Stands

Examples of stands

As a general rule, the following guidelines must be met when developing stands:

- Wall backgrounds and canvases in white or corporate blue.
- Corporate typeface.
- No more texts than necessary to convey the message.
- Use of italics is not admitted, except for claims and quotes.

Trade fairs and events - Promotional objects (examples)

Brand promotional objects are divided into three major groups:

- Stationery, notepads, pens, pen drives...
- Utilities, glass and aluminium bottles/tins, backpacks made from recycled plastic bottles, cotton bags...
- Textile, caps, t-shirts...

These materials must always be consistent with the brand's values, be related to Aqualia's performance and be sustainable and health-friendly.

Digital media - Corporate template for PowerPoint presentation

PowerPoint presentations must be created using the corporate template.

Related brands

A brand is a fundamental and necessary commercial identification (or set of multiple identifiers) offering a product or service on the market in response to a sales strategy.

Generally speaking, Aqualia acts with a full brand presence across all acquisition and purchase processes of companies related to its activity, whether national or international.

Because of its status as a global brand, Aqualia interacts with other brands of different kinds and it is therefore sometimes necessary to create a related brand that meets the needs of all parties.

In these cases, a number of rules are established for building these new brands and their coexistence with the corporate brand.

Please see the Communication, Branding and Public Affairs Department if you have any questions.

Case 1

Aqualia in the case of national or international business purchases or acquisitions with a 100% stake

The brand in this case will always be Aqualia, although where the acquired brand has real value and importance a period of transition is established from the acquired brand name to our one. After this time, the brand will become Aqualia.

Case 2

Aqualia in relation to mixed enterprises (relations with municipalities) and joint ventures

In cases where the Aqualia brand cannot be used for reasons of the negotiations themselves, the following guidelines are established to create a subsidiary brand where the name must always contain the word 'aguas de' or 'aqua' and keep certain corporate features.

- Aqualia corporate typeface: Frutiger.
- Icon assigned by the entity to a local element.
- The name is assigned by the specific entity, which usually follows local criteria.
- Aqualia corporate blue and new colour
- Pantone 5415 / c56 m11 y0 k43 / r96 g127 b154:

Case 3

If the negotiations result in the creation of a completely new brand, an attempt must be made to conserve Aqualia's corporate colours.

- The typeface does not necessarily have to be the Aqualia corporate one.
- Local icon.
- The name assigned by the specific entity, which usually follows local criteria.
- Aqualia corporate colours:

In these cases, the Aqualia brand logo must always be used, in its colour and without its image type (its “wing” characteristics) accompanied by an identifier of the product or service it will provide.

In communication materials, these brands must coexist with the Aqualia corporate brand in all cases.

Please see the Communication, Branding and Public Affairs Department to create or modify these types of identifiers.

Brands without endorsement

Brands without endorsement

In cases where Aqualia's stake is clearly lower, no endorsement should be used, with the resulting brand acting independently.
